

Sponsored by:
Teton Interagency
Fire Management

A 6-hour course to introduce the information
operation of a wildland fire.

Participants in the course may be considered for short-term,
emergency hire
positions when additional fire
information
assistance is needed to support large fire incidents.

For questions or registration,
contact:
Lori Iverson,
Fire Education
Specialist
(307) 739-3667

So You've Been Asked to Help With Fire Information

Tuesday, June 8, 2004 8:00 a.m. - 2:30 p.m.
532 North Cache Street
Jackson, Wyoming

Course topics include:

-  fire management tools when an ignition occurs;
-  resource ordering when fire management strategies are determined;
-  overview of the Incident Command System (ICS) used during emergency operations;
-  key information components such as:
 - gathering, assembling, and disseminating information
 - identifying information resources
 - developing and incorporating key messages
 - working with the media
 - working in field information operations
-  tour of the Teton Interagency Dispatch Center in Moose, Wyoming